During this period, Sonder SBC developed a perspective Reflection System designed to help individuals + orgs better understand their internal experience to feel accurately seen in moments of uncertainty. Activities included building the proprietary framework, creating a working prototype, and conducting early-stage testing. These efforts aimed to validate the system's ability to reflect user experience in a way that increases clarity + reduces misalignment. As an early-stage venture, the primary focus has been on product development and validation vs. commercial deployment. Progress towards the public benefit includes early evidence that users experience increased self-understanding and a greater ability to articulate their perspective after using the system.
